Random acts of kindness

School assignment promotes good will

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Kindness can be contagious. A favor — even something as simple as a friendly smile — can brighten someone else's otherwise dreary day and prompt them to perform a similar act for others. That is one lesson — not necessarily taken from a textbook — that students in Shirley Stoll's classes at Coolidge Junior High School learned this year.

"Sure, we have to give the achievement tests. But I think the most important thing I can teach my students is how to be a good person," Stoll said.

While Stoll has promoted "Random Acts of Kindness" for several years, the lesson was especially effective this year as the message spread from her speech classes to her other classes, throughout the school building, to the community and finally reached as far as Oklahoma City.

As a classroom assignment, Stoll's seventh and eighth grade Speech students drew names from a hat. The students were to keep their assigned partner's identity secret and perform some kind of act for them — anything from a friendly smile to giving a piece of chewing gum to purchasing lunch.

Students were then asked to take the assignment to the streets — to perform kind acts for family members at home, friends in their neighborhood or strangers on the street.

"I call this one an assignment for life," Stoll said.

One girl who did the dishes for her grandmother said she felt good about it. Another girl who characterized herself as very shy stood up for a friend when others were making fun of the friend.

"I felt proud. I hardly ever do anything like that," the student said.

Other students helped their mothers cook dinner, gave money to people,

Apartment plan fought
Chouteau residents oppose rezoning

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Approximately 450 Chouteau Township residents have signed petitions against the rezoning of property at Chain of Rocks Road and St. Thomas Road that would allow construction of a four-building apartment complex.

Opponents claim the project would increase flooding and could overburden police, fire and ambulance services.

The Metro Center for Life Management in Granite City is planning to build an apartment complex for adults with emotional problems at the intersection.

The development would include 11 residential apartments with 17 bedrooms in three buildings. The fourth building would house offices, a community room and a laundry room for residents.

Construction is expected to cost between $800,000 and $1 million.

The center, a nonprofit agency that receives part of its funding from state and federal agencies, provides services for the mentally ill. A zoning hearing for the development has been set for Thursday, June 22, at the site.

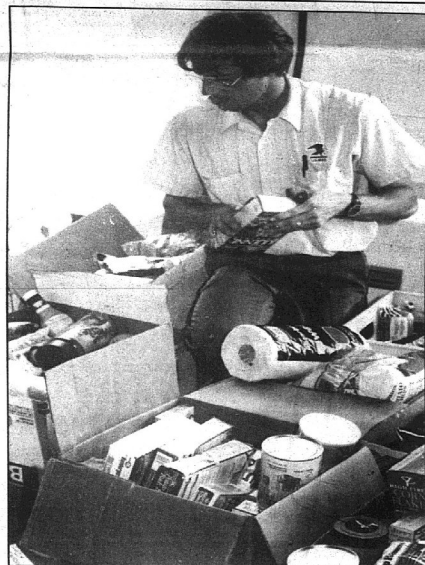

The hearing, by the Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals, will be on a request to rezone seven acres from B-3 highway business district to R-5 multiple family dwelling.

The residents would be clients in the ## Future of base being studied

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

While the Defense Base Realignment and Closure Commission is still deciding the fate of the Charles Melvin Price Support Center, local governments are preparing to deal with the problems and opportunities of commercial development at the base.

Granite City, Venice, Madison and Madison County are all considering intergovernmental agreements to create a committee to oversee commercial development at the center.

The committee would include three members each from Madison County and Granite City, and one each from Venice, Madison and the Leadership Council of Southwestern Illinois.

There would also be non-voting members from the Tri-City Port Authority and Southwestern Illinois Development Authority.

Maj. Gen. Jack Griffith, a retired Air Force general heading local efforts to keep the base open, said forming the commission was the "prudent" thing to do. He added that informal discussion of the agreement has been going on for some time.

"At the same time we're trying to save the installation, we're taking prudent steps so local communities will be in a position to take advantage of whatever happens," he said Wednesday.

On Monday, U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, testified before the commission in Washington. He urged the panel, headed by former U.S. Senator Alan Dixon of Belleville — to keep the Price Center open.

"Keeping the Price Center open will provide much needed military housing in the St. Louis metropolitan area, with facilities for almost every branch of military service," Costello said. "The Price Center provides vital quality of life services that our government is obligated to provide to active and retired military and civilian personnel."

Congressmen fight closing

The Charles Melvin Price Support Center near Granite City got strong support from local congressmen this week.

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, and U.S. Rep. Dick Durbin, D-Springfield, testified Monday and Tuesday, respectively, before the Base Realignment and Closure Commission. The commission, chaired by former U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon of Belleville, is holding its final hearings on recommendations by the Pentagon to close or realign military bases nationwide.

Jason Talley does it all in the classroom and on the athletic field.

Talley was instrumental in organizing the Granite City High School Student Council Christmas Basket program and served as school superintendent during the annual Elks "Youth Day" last month.

Talley, a GCHS student, was selected Elks boy teenager of the month in April. He was honored for his achievement in National Honor Society, Student Council, and his baseball accomplishments.

His other student activities include Fellowship of Christian Athletes, football, basketball, golf and Varsity Club.

Event raises $11,000 for Youth Center plan

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Mayor Ron Selph's dream of a Granite City area teen center continues to come closer to reality.

A thunderstorm failed to dampen the spirits of hundreds of golfers May 27 as they drove golf balls into winds of more than 30 miles per hour and putted through puddles — some more than an inch deep — on a water-logged Arlington Golf Course to raise funds for the Mayor's Youth Center, a private, not-for-profit corporation set up to raise money toward building a center for Granite City youth.

"This was a fun event. It was tremendous show of support and success from the business community," Selph said. "I think everyone involved enjoyed themselves in spite of the weather."

More than $11,000 was raised through the donations of golfers and hole sponsors.

Selph established the youth center organization and a 20-member board of directors — including two high school students — last year after distributing a survey to determine what youth in the community want in a teen center. The organization's goal

Steel firm faces fines for deaths

By Bob Slato
Staff writer

The U.S. Department of Labor has issued Heitman Steel citations alleging eight safety violations in connection with a fatal accident at the steel processing facility earlier this year.

The labor department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has proposed penalties of $85,000. Heitman has 15 days to accept or contest the citations.

General Manager Bill Davis said Wednesday the company had not yet made that decision. OSHA conducted an investigation following the Feb. 2 deaths of David A. Long, 35, of Highland, and Joseph M. Taylor, 65, of Fults. Both of the Heitman employees were working on a hydraulic lift in a pit under a 5,000-pound, scissors-leg table when the scrap table collapsed on top of them, crushing them, according to police accounts.

OSHA has alleged a willful violation in connection with the lack of a lockout procedure for performing maintenance in the scrap pit, including lack of adequate training for personnel, lack of specific procedures for the operation and lack of periodic inspections of the existing lockout program and procedures.

The willful violation, defined by OSHA as one committed with an intentional disregard for or indifference to the requirements of the Occupational Safety and Health Act and its regulations, carries a penalty of $83,000.

Alleged serious violations include lack of: a confined space entry program; machine guarding including point of operation, accidental movement of equipment and in-going nip points; operator controls for a steel coil cart; guardrails for open-sided platforms; and personal protective equipment.

bought candy for others, helped each other with homework, carried books for friends, cut grass for their elderly neighbors at no charge, and helped with Special Olympics.

And to the students' amazement, the random acts of kindness were reciprocated.

Stoll purchased buttons with the message "Help spread random acts of kindness." Students all over the school wanted a button.

In April, when a federal building in Oklahoma City was bombed, the students at Coolidge sprang into action. They began selling the "kindness" buttons and set aside the proceeds for the victims.

When several hundred buttons had been sold, Stoll suggested that the class call an end to the project. But the students would have none of that, she said.

"One boy in the corner said, 'No way,' kind of like, 'We're on a roll. Don't stop now,'" she said.

The students eventually raised more than $350, which was sent to a disaster recovery fund at a bank in Oklahoma City.

Was the project just another homework assignment for the students or did it actually affect their lives and attitudes?

One student's reaction — when Stoll suggested calling the media to report the project — is evidence that the project was effective. The student said the program was better left unreported.

"Maybe (random acts of kindness are) something we should do just because it is the right thing to do," the boy said.

But, Stoll said, she felt like the students deserved recognition.

"This has really confirmed for me what I have always believed about children," she said.

FEMA OKs Pontoon extension

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Federal Emergency Management Agency has granted a request for an extension of the deadline to provide information about Pontoon Beach's flood plain elevations.

The firm hired to shoot flood plain elevations for Pontoon Beach had requested an extension in a June 6 letter to FEMA. Norbert Schwartz, mitigation branch manager for FEMA region 5 in Chicago, said the extension was granted Wednesday afternoon.

"They (the village) passed a resolution showing they were committed to hiring a survey firm to complete the work, so we considered that a reasonable request," he said.

"We will be watching them," he added.

He said the work must be completed by August 31.

In a letter to FEMA official Alan Birman, John Hales of Sheppard, Morgan & Schwaab said the company could not meet the June 12 deadline set by the agency. Providing the information was the second of a three-phase plan to correct problems discovered during visits by FEMA officials following the Flood of 1993.

At its last meeting, the village board approved spending $25,000 to hire the firm to shoot flood plain elevations, the second of a three-phase plan to correct problems.

In his letter, Hales said the firm was contacted by the village on May 23, and elevation surveys began last week.

"The original timetable for Phase II of the village's plan allowed for three months to obtain elevations and submit them..." Hales' letter said.

On May 11, FEMA notified the village that unless the information was sent by June 12, the village would be placed on probation for participating in the National Flood Insurance Program, meaning each of the 76 properties in Pontoon Beach with flood insurance would have to pay a $50 surcharge and would be notified the reason is the village's failure to comply.

FEMA officials said the agency needed to know the lowest elevations of affected structures. The structures, mostly mobile homes, were scattered throughout the village.

The problems with FEMA stem from improper enforcement of village ordinances dealing with permits and flood elevations prior to 1993. The problem was discovered after the flood of 1993.

Those problems led to a larger investigation of village practices and eventually to indictment on forgery and official misconduct charges of former Village Clerk Mary Warren.

In November 1993, the village received a letter from the Illinois Department of Transportation Floodplain Management Section, saying it had three months to begin the second of a three-phase plan to deal with those problems.

The first phase was identifying affected buildings, the second was finding the lowest floor elevations of those buildings.

The third phase will be making sure the permit and record-keeping system is adequate, and correcting whatever problems exist in targeted buildings.

Because most are mobile homes, raising or flood proofing the structures will not be difficult in most cases, according to FEMA.

However, structures that could not be raised or flood proofed might have to be removed.

On Feb. 15, 1994, Wilson wrote to FEMA, stating inclement weather and budgetary problems were causing a delay in completing the second phase. At the time he said the second phase would "commence shortly" and asked for a deadline extension until May 30, 1994.

Racetrack eyes Pontoon tract

By Mark Hodepp
Staff writer

A proposal to build a stock car racetrack in O'Fallon may not become a reality and that could open up the possibility of the track being located in Pontoon Beach, sources told the Press-Record Wednesday.

An area near the intersection of Interstates 270 and 255 is apparently being considered by Midwest Venture Group after problems arose with the O'Fallon site.

Jim Bollmeier, an investor in Midwest, said Wednesday that Pontoon Beach is among the communities being considered for the track.

"It's still in the talking stages," he said.

The property being considered in Pontoon Beach is a bigger piece of land than what was proposed in O'Fallon, he said.

Noting that I-255 is being extended north from I-270, Bollmeier said: "There would be a lot of possibilities."

Midwest Venture Group President Charles Thomas said earlier that his group of investors will meet this week to discuss the Midwest Motorplex project.

Thomas confirmed that MVG has its 102-acre property in O'Fallon for sale. But he wouldn't comment whether the land for the racetrack was included.

MVG announced in March that it planned to build a stock car racetrack and a business park near Illinois 158 and I-64.

MVG officials have said the track would produce $1.6 million annually in sales tax revenue. Nine full-time jobs would be created.

Thomas said at this point he didn't know if the racetrack will still be built there.

"I just don't know," he said. Thomas said he will make a recommendation to the investors during the meeting. But he declined to share his recommendation.

"That's only for the group to know," he said.

Thomas said while a track takes only two months to build, his investors feel no pressure to start construction.

"We are going to step back and see what happens," he said.

Several anti-track petitions have been presented to the O'Fallon City Council in recent months.

In April, MVG withdrew its proposed pre-annexation agreement with O'Fallon. Thomas said then he wanted to give the city's new aldermen a chance to study the issue further before refiling the proposal. He said

MVG would likely refile the proposed pre-annexation agreement within the next 30 days.

Thomas said MVG does not plan to go back to the council anytime soon.

MVG had hoped to get the track built by summer, with races starting next spring.

Edgar won't fight voter law

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Jim Edgar has hit the brakes on his battle to stall the motor-voter law.

"I do not believe it is realistic or prudent to prolong the battle at this point," Edgar said Tuesday.

"Given the adverse decisions by the federal district and appellate courts, my administration will move to implement the law."

Edgar has been resisting the National Voter Registration Act, which requires states to make voter registration easier, since it was approved in 1993.

He called it a costly federal mandate that weakens the integrity of voter rolls.

Edgar's surrender came one day after a federal appeals court denied Illinois' request to declare the law unconstitutional. The state had until June 27 to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The motor-voter law allows registration by mail and directs state workers at social service agencies and driver's license facilities to give patrons the opportunity to register.

Supporters contend the law will encourage participation in the electoral process.

"The League (of Women Voters) is convinced that tens of thousands more people in Illinois will have the opportunity to vote if they want," League Executive Director Cindy Canary said.

Addicted to disaster

FEMA volunteers go where they are needed

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Coming back from a flood in Louisiana, Marvin Carlson got one day to relax before being sent to another flood in the Granite City area.

"I managed to empty my laundry bag, but I didn't get to wash anything," he said. Carlson is one of about 125 workers with the Federal Emergency Management Agency sent to the area after President Bill Clinton declared Madison and St. Clair counties a federal disaster area.

A former state government official in Washington, Carlson is now a private consultant. Like many of the FEMA workers sent here, he is a reservist, and has been at disaster sites all across the country.

"It's exciting when they call you," Roger Allen of Michigan said. "You have to go somewhere right away because they need you."

James Mason, also of Michigan, said it was addictive too.

"You get tired of it after a while, but then when you go home for two or three weeks, you start watching the Weather Channel and look for another opportunity to go out."

He added that the worst feeling was when a disaster happens and you don't get called.

Most FEMA reservists go to an average of three or four disasters a year, they said. Most stay from four to eight weeks.

Nelda Ahl of Wisconsin, a payroll and financial specialist, said moving around so much was not very difficult.

"It's like a reunion," she said. "You get with people you know, and this is your family."

Many of the FEMA workers have been in the area before.

Allen began working for FEMA in 1981, and his first disaster was a tornado in Marion.

Mason was in East St. Louis for the Flood of 1993.

"I started in Wisconsin, went to Moline, then Chicago, and then East St. Louis," he said.

They said flood damage this time was severe in places, but not as widespread as many other disasters.

"Some of the damage is pretty bad, but it's in a smaller area," Allen said. "I'm surprised that areas flooded this year did not get flooded in 1993."

Carlson said it takes a "special kind of person" to work for FEMA.

"It takes a unique individual to handle the pressure," he said. "You have to be able to handle 15-hour days, seven days a week, and constantly changing objectives."

"You don't know when you're going to arrive, and you don't know when you are going to leave."

Allen said potential disaster workers are carefully screened before going on the job.

"There are some training sessions, but most of it is on-the-job," he said.

While there is little time for socializing, when they do get together FEMA workers tend to compare stories and talk about disasters.

"There seem to be more natural disasters in the last 50 years," Mason said.

Carlson said weather is important. "Our entertainment is the Weather Channel," he said.

"The thing I always reflect on is that just because we happen to live on this Earth at this time, we believe everything is fixed in place," he added. "Things happen, and there are weather cycles we have never seen in recorded history."

Drummer Jesse Lancaster gets into one of the band's numbers during a recent appearance of the band "Ninekiller" at Player's Pub and Grille in Granite City.

'Ninekiller' Local band is making a name for itself

By Debbie Johnson
Correspondent

One of the St. Louis area's best-kept secrets isn't so secret any more.

The band "Ninekiller," featuring two Granite City natives, has been playing regularly on Lucade's Landing in St. Louis and recently performed at Player's Pub and Grille in Granite City.

Led by singer guitarist Phillip Valencia and drummer Jesse Lancaster, the band also gets help from Lawrence Thompson on bass, Janice Rieman on cello and Syd Rodway on saxophone. Valencia and Lancaster are Granite City natives who first met in 1987 through mutual friends. They describe the band's unique sound as "acoustic rock without being fluffy, with alternative and adult aspects."

The band, which has been playing the club circuit for about three months now, plans to release its self-titled CD in July. The band is heading back into the studio and doesn't plan to return to the stage until late summer.

Once the CD is released — and copies of several of the songs have already been released in audio tape format — the band plans an extensive public relations campaign.

"We're looking forward to it," Lancaster said. "We plan to hit one of the coasts," Valencia said.

One of the band's songs, "Lapdog," has received some airplay on St. Louis radio station The Point, and Valencia and Lancaster say they are winning over critics and writers.

"We've got some nice press... which is really nice," Lancaster said.

When asked why they chose the moniker "Ninekiller," Valencia smiled. It turns out he just opened up a dictionary and saw the word.

The Webster's New World Dictionary defines "ninekiller" as "a shrill-voiced bird of prey."

"It's a real cool name," Valencia said. "Few people know what it is."

"It kind of reflects the band because we're small, like the bird," Lancaster said. The band spent the afternoon of the Player's show shooting footage for a video. Valencia and Lancaster said the people they have contacted in California have asked for some footage. Since the band is trying to strike up a relationship with a record label, it seemed logical to shoot the video, Valencia and Lancaster said.

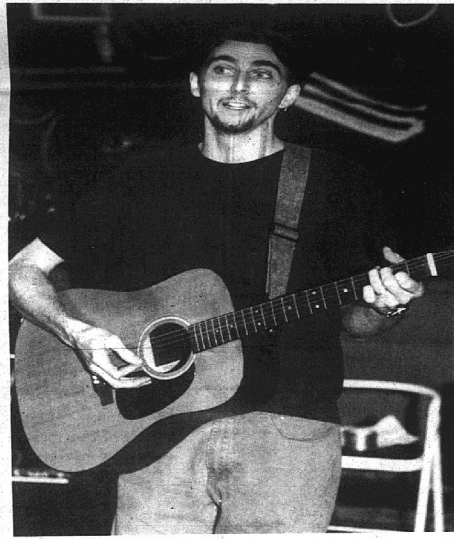

Before hitting the club circuit earlier this year, the band spent eight months in rehearsal with a precise schedule in mind: hit the playing circuit hard, take a break to finish recording and then heavily promote it.

The band is contemplating a Midwest college tour once the CD is released. Their fans can hardly wait.

Mini If gorilla can paint, so can she

I've never put much stock in the opinions of art critics. They became suspect to me when Warhol's painting of a can of Campbell's soup brought rave reviews.

Immediately, I knew there was a dead dog somewhere up that branch and little has happened since to alter that opinion.

In fact, it was reinforced a couple of weeks ago when I learned that a Toronto artist, Charles, had hit the art world big.

Charles, who has been painting for over 20 years, is a 440-pound gorilla who resides in the African Pavilion of the Toronto Zoo.

His body of work failed to attract notice, however, until 1991 when his keeper introduced him to the color black, but now his paintings are bringing prices ranging from $200 to $800.

His keeper has noted that Charles is a "knuckle worker." He uses the back of his knuckles to paint. He further noted that an "authentic Charles" will have either a footprint or a handprint on it.

His pictures are reportedly full of excitement, movement and texture and when one tries to picture Charles in a frenzy of creativity, I'd guess you could take that assessment to the bank.

Mind you, I'm not knocking the gorilla's success. If Charles can hit the jackpot from his Toronto cage, why can't I match his feat from my modest Edwardsville studio? True, my artistic abilities have never been anything to write home about and probably wouldn't fill a thimble, but Charles has struck a spark of hope in this aging beast.

My best endeavors, by and large, are stick figures, but in my teens, I drew a mean bunny head, and this was before anyone had heard of Hugh Hefner.

Thanks to Kay Kendall, to whom the glogrease was half-full and who has unflinching faith that nothing is impossible, I like Charles. I might become the toast of the art galleries. An Old Master?

Doubtful, but I'll settle for an Old Mistress, especially if my artistic endeavors could sell for five hundred apiece.

And always assuming some stray art critic wanders into Edwardsville's work-in-progress, the planned natural preserve of prairie-and-wetlands adjacent to

Carol Clarkin

Hoppe Park.

Late last year, Kay presented me with a damp square of clay on which she suggested I carve something representational of nature. At first, I demurred, citing my total lack of talent, but true to form, she insisted and even suggested that I try pressing something into the clay and then carving the outline and return it to her for firing into one of countless titles that will be set into the wall to preserve the welcome center.

Following her advice, I tried a pine cone (with dubious results). To date, it's been identified as a leaf or a feather, discouraging me enough that I shelved the thing.

Now that I've learned about Charles, I can hardly wait to return it to Kay!

Unfortunately, last week I learned that Kay was in Boston enjoying grandchildren so that delivery will have to wait, but, John, her husband (and co-planner of the preserve), gave me an update on progress at the site.

A walkway, elevated about a foot over the water, and leading to the observation ramp, has been completed and is already in use for children's field trips. This week, prairie planting begins.

Bids for the welcome center have been opened and approved by all necessary agencies and the city council. Wet weather has been holding up work on the walkway ramp that will lead out to the island in the wetlands where the welcome center will be located. Most work is delaying asphaltting the trails.

At any rate, I'll be keeping an eye on the progress by the old lagoon. That welcome center represents my opportunity for a shot at the big time, maybe even the big bucks.

I'm willing to work in any medium. I'm not as old as Grandma Moses, but when she became the icon of fans of the American Primitive, I'm considering founding my own artistic school and calling it "Rorschachian." You know, whatever it looks like to you, that's what it is.

Durbin may be our next senator

In the 1980s and early 1990s, the Metro East was blessed by two United States senators — Alan Dixon of Belleville and Paul Simon of Makanda (formerly of Troy). Simon had represented the Granite City-Madison area in the Illinois House and Illinois Senate and remained familiar with local needs.

Now, with Dixon defeated in 1992 and Simon retiring after the 1996 election, it may be up to Richard J. "Dick" Durbin to preserve a "Metro East seat" in the U.S. Senate.

Durbin, 50, the current congressman from Springfield, represents a district, the 20th, that includes the Collinsville-Edwardsville area. Durbin was born in East St. Louis.

For a number of years, he has taken an active interest in Southwestern Illinois, including during the illness and death of local Congressman Melvin Price. Price later was succeeded by Jerry Costello of Belleville.

All of the legislators mentioned so far in this column are Democrats. But will the Democratic Party be able to retain the post being relinquished by Sen. Simon? Republicans control nearly all Illinois state offices and are expected to nominate for senator the well-respected lieutenant governor, Bob Kustra.

Kustra is probably a shoo-in for the GOP nomination, but Durbin is far from being guaranteed the Democratic nomination.

The Senate Democratic nomination also is likely to be sought by David Wilhelm, a Chicagoan who once headed the national Democratic Party, and by Patrick Quinn, former state treasurer.

Several potential Senate contenders have said they won't enter the Democratic primary, including Neil Hartigan and Rep. Lane Evans of Rock Island. Hartigan, a former Illinois lieutenant governor and attorney general, intends to run for governor in 1998.

Durbin presides at daily Democratic strategy meetings at the Capitol and is recognized as one of the most congenial, knowledgeable and energetic lawmakers in Washington.

In 1992, Durbin, a lawyer, defeated Republican John Shimkus of Collinsville, Madison County treasurer.

Shimkus was trying to advance to a congressional position then and may try it again next year.

Durbin serves on the House Appropriations Committee and is known for his successful sponsorship of a law banning cigarette, cigar and pipe smoking on airplane flights.

He has been a leading proponent of ethanol fuel, senior citizen concerns, health care research, education, the MetroLink light-rail commuter system in St. Louis and Metro East, programs for pregnant women and their children, and curbs on violent crimes and wasteful federal spending.

Among Durbin's current goals are creating job opportunities, keeping the economy moving forward, promoting a St. Louis-Chicago high-speed railroad passenger corridor and seeking a higher standard of living for Illinoisans and Americans.

Durbin presides at daily Democratic strategy meetings at the Capitol and is recognized as one of the most congenial, knowledgeable and energetic lawmakers in Washington.

of Congress this year, Durbin chaired the Agriculture and Rural Development Subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee and was the second-ranking member of the Transportation Subcommittee.

His farm-related subcommittee's fields of expertise included nutrition programs and activities of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Although pleasant to both friends and foes, Durbin has been willing to tackle tough jobs whenever he believes the struggle is justified.

He has collided with such formidable targets as the tobacco lobby, major oil firms and House committee secrecy policies.

Despite his willingness to "step on toes," he has been rated by colleagues as the most effective member of the Illinois congressional delegation.

By "doing his homework" on a variety of issues, Durbin has been able to bridge differences and achieve unity.

His skills include recognizing common ground between competing causes and satisfying both sides, thus giving highly honorable meaning to the definition of politics as "the art of compromise."

Letters to the editor

Fly the flags, display pride

TO THE EDITOR:

The Stars and Stripes that flew over Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, rippled above the Big Three Conference at Potsdam. This same flag was flying over the White House on Aug. 14, 1945, when the Japanese accepted surrender terms.

Public Law 94-35 in 1965 established Flag Day June 14 through July 4, a period to honor America as a 21-day salute to the American Flag.

The members of Drusilla Andrews Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, urge all citizens to fly the flags and display your pride in our country.

Clean merf is logical choice

TO THE EDITOR:

Not all merfs are created equal. That was the message in the May 4 article in which several Granite City officials who visited a clean materials recovery facility, or clean merf, in Florida were quoted as saying that it did not live up to its name.

If so, it is the fault of the facility and its operator, not the clean merf concept.

Laidlaw Waste Systems, the largest residential trash hauler and recycler in Madison County, recently announced plans to build a clean merf in Roxana. The $600,000 facility will be able to initially process 50 tons of recyclable material a day that is already separated from trash. Laidlaw selected a clean merf because it is an inherently cleaner, more efficient alternative, A clean merf can guarantee that all materials will be recycled, thus helping Madison County achieve the state-imposed mandate to recycle 25 percent of its trash by July 1, 1996.

A clean merf is also the best alternative for Madison County because county residents are already used to separate recyclable materials from trash. More than one-third of county residents already have curb-side recycling. Some county officials believe returning to mixed trash pickups would be a step backward for the environment.

Laidlaw obviously cannot comment on what conditions Granite City officials found at the clean merf they visited in Sarasota, Fla., which is operated by Resource Recovery Systems. But we can comment on the clean merf Laidlaw operates close to Madison County — in Schaumburg, Ill., just outside Chicago. This facility truly lives up to its name. We would welcome an opportunity to show officials from Granite City and elsewhere in Madison County this facility to prove that not all merfs are created equal.

Laidlaw has provided solid waste and recycling services in Madison County for nine years; we have a proven track record here and across the country. Laidlaw will not build a merf of any kind where it is clean, safe and sanitary. That is what the residents of Madison County expect; they deserve no less.

Graduates, take a piece of city with you

Following is the text of Granite City High School valedictorian Sabina Kumar's address to the graduating class of 1996:

Good evening teachers, administration, friends, family and, most importantly, class of 1996.

I wish to begin my brief remarks by extending my best wishes to all of you. Each and every one of us has worked hard to reach this point, and all of us deserve heart-felt congratulations.

Tonight, for the first time in my high school career, I am going to break the rules. Tradition says the valedictorian is supposed to speak about the future. However, in order to look forward, we must look back and remember where it is we came from.

Over the past four years, I have had the pleasure of getting to know many of you. Overall, the students of Granite City High School are the most compassionate and hard-working people I know.

Recently, our entire school raised over $3,500 for the victims of the Oklahoma City tragedy. Just last month, three clubs here at the high school collected over $3,000 for the American Cancer Society. These two examples are just a few of the many school and community activities in which the students have shown their compassion for others. This kindness coupled with their diverse skills and their hard work will lead them to many, many places.

Among us are future engineers, doctors, steel workers, carpenters, lawyers and teachers. Who knows, one of us might be the person who finds the cure for cancer or who becomes president of the United States. Our jobs will carry us to the ends of the world and maybe out of this world into the space industry. But, wherever we go, we will always have something in common. We are forever linked with Granite City.

In his song "Small Town," John Mellencamp sings about his hometown and how it will always be his true home. Granite City was born in a small town, educated in a small town. Taught to fear Jesus in a small town. I love the small communities, but I cannot forget where I come from. I cannot forget the people who love me. I can be myself in this small town and people let me be what I want to be.

I believe the message of the song is one the class of 1996 should keep to heart as we head out into the world. The small-town atmosphere of Granite City will stay with us forever. No matter where we may go, this town will always be our home. I believe we should be proud of this.

This blue-collar town is built on hard work and an honest day's work for an honest day's pay. If each of us takes the Granite City work ethic with us, there is nothing that can stop us. The song makes the point that the small town will always be home. Home is where the heart is. My heart is in Granite City. This is the place I have spent my whole life. This is the place my family lives. This is the place people understand me and let me be what I want to be.

In conclusion, I would like to encourage the graduates to always take a piece of Granite City with them. Take pride in where you come from. And remember, you're always welcome back home here to Granite City.

organization's rehabilitation or employment programs. Chouteau Township Supervisor Pat Polley said residents had recently delivered about 450 petitions to her. She said she would present them to the zoning board during the hearing. Polley said the township had taken no official position on the development, but she was personally opposed because of the flooding problem.

Orville Mercer, executive director of the center, said Tuesday that he had not heard of any opposition to the project. Leroy Welborn, of the 2500 block of Ruth, one of the leaders of the opposition, said the potential residents were not a problem, but flooding was. "If they come in here and build, they're going to flood the subdivision," he said. "We'll be another Mitchell Lake (referring to a nearby subdivision which suffered heavy flooding in recent rains).

"This area has been overbuilt to begin with," he added. Another concern is police, fire and ambulance protection. Fire protection is provided by the Mitchell Fire Protection District, and police by the Madison County Sheriff's Department. Because the area is bordered by Interstate 270 and railroad tracks, Welborn said the potential for some kind of a disaster is high, and adding more residents would decrease the ability of fire and police departments to deal with disasters.

County negotiating with Amoco over property tax

Madison County officials are continuing to grapple with requests for property tax cuts by several area industrial giants but are giving first priority to negotiating a June tax bill for Amoco Petroleum Additives Co. "We didn't get anything resolved in recent negotiations, but we're trying to get some of the assessments worked out," Madison County Supervisor of Assessments Robert Harris said. County and Amoco officials plan to meet again after Harris talks Tuesday with representatives of taxing districts that could be affected by Amoco's requested two-thirds cut in its tax bill. Amoco is seeking a $50 million reduction in the market value of its additive plant on Evans Avenue from $73 million to $24 million. The request is based on the scheduled shutdown of the plant by June 26 and its subsequent dismantling. Amoco sold its petroleum additives business to Ethyl Petroleum Additives Inc. in 1992, but the sale did not include the Wood River plant. As part of the agreement, Amoco has continued to supply products to Ethyl until the June shutdown with an option to continue supplying polypropylene to Ethyl for up to two additional years. Shell Oil Co. has requested similar reductions for its $281 million Wood River Manufacturing Complex in Roxana for next year, but Harris said the Amoco question has a more immediate impact and will be settled first. "It happens every year, but it's never been a problem before. This year it's hitting all at once, and the size of the cuts are bigger," he said. Harris said the county will begin taking bids on the cost of a formal appraisal for the Amoco plant and may do a formal appraisal on Shell later. Assessment officials and the companies normally do their own in-house appraisals and sit down to resolve the differences, he said. This year the outside appraisal may be started by July as part of the documentation for continuing negotiations, he said. Amoco has received reductions in property valuations each year since 1981, when the refinery portion of the Amoco site closed. Harris said the county will not make a decision without consulting the affected taxing bodies. "Nothing has been settled," he said. — From the Alton Telegraph

Art
VoellingerPrep coaching taking its toll

A few years ago a friend of mine said he knew men who would gladly coach a high school varsity sport — regardless of pay.

The times they are a-changin'. I wonder how many folks would say the same thing today, especially if they really knew what it takes to direct a high school varsity sport.

MY THOUGHTS WERE turned in that direction recently when I considered some of the postseason remarks of two varsity baseball coaches: Warren Ittner at Cahokia and Tom Pile at Edwardsville.

In each case, something rings similar as Ittner moves from the high school level to junior high baseball coaching and Pile takes a long look at his Edwardsville position.

Each did not refer to burnout, but to other concerns that make me wonder as the coach of two varsity sports at O'Fallon High — soccer and baseball, if I'll ever face the same concerns.

Even before speaking with Ittner at the Belleville West Regional, where the Comanches ended a 7-13 season in a loss to Collinsville, I knew the 55-year-old coach had seen enough.

TO SAY the former Freeburg High and McKendree College pitching star was frustrated was to say the least. However, he went little beyond that and only referred to the difficulties of finding dedicated players.

"There's so many distractions...so many things going on — working, jobs, cars," Ittner was quoted as saying.

The varsity coach at Cahokia for nine seasons, Ittner will remain the head baseball coach at Worth Middle School, where he has coached in the fall for more than 20 years.

Said Ittner: "I was really up this year because we had some kids who could play ball. It didn't pan out. I just took a couple of steps backward and took a look at things. I decided I'd be better off coaching at the junior high."

PERSONS CLOSE TO Pile might shrug off his postseason blues by pointing to this season's 27-4 record that ended in a regional defeat to Jerseyville or the fact that the perennially powerful Tigers haven't reached the sectional in two consecutive seasons.

Still, Pile has been hinting at getting out for more than a year. He spoke of such as a radio commentator and more recently after the Tigers blew a 4-0 lead against a team they had beaten twice in the regular season.

Edwardsville's coach since 1981, Pile, 51, was quoted as saying: "Maybe I hate to lose more than everybody else. And I'm very emotional. That takes its toll, too. I take losses very hard. It's something I've tried to get better at. I don't think I have yet."

He added: "The older you get, the more things affect you." One could interpret that as a reference to losing or to his health problems that include diabetes and a chronic neck problem.

My thought is that Tom Pile has accomplished much: two state titles, a 64-game winning streak and the development of several college and pro players. Meanwhile, the Tigers continue to grind away at baseball with everything from offseason hitting in the winter to clinics in the summer.

Triplets blast
East St. LouisBy Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Tri-City Post 113 Triplets have won the pitching duels and the extra-inning battles in the early going this season. But it took a marathon effort to defeat East St. Louis on Tuesday.

Post 113, after falling behind 1-0 in the first inning, exploded for a 15-3 victory in a game that took two hours and 50 minutes to complete. An eight-run sixth inning turned the game into a rout and led the Triplets to their fourth straight win.

THE GAME WAS a change of pace for Tri-City, which was coming off Sunday's 5-2 victory over Troy.

"The way we started, I thought we were going to be here for four hours," Tri-City manager Doug Winfield said. "We got a lot of runs. It was nice to have a few runs instead of it being a real close ball game."

The game began an hour late after the Junior Triplets got off to a late start before defeating East St. Louis in the first of two games at Varsity Field.

The Triplets then spotted Post 378 a run in the first inning when Edward Scott singled, stole second and third and scored on a triple by Anthony Brooks.

But Tri-City came back in the bottom of the inning to take a 3-1 lead. Mike Kalips and Jason Wood both scored on a wild pitch, and Scott Nemeth reached on an error and scored on another error when Scott booted a grounder by Brian Lloyd at second base.

POST 113 TOOK a 5-2 lead in the third on RBI singles by Andy Roe and Brad Ervay, and made it 7-3 in the fourth. After Jermaine Chambers doubled home Courtney Ferguson in the top of the fourth, Kalips squeezed home Matt Krause and Wood scored on another wild pitch in the bottom of the inning.

The Triplets took a four-run lead into the sixth, when Toby Wislorn relieved Tolly Hughes. Kyle Briggs, batting for Kalips, led off with a triple to deep right field and scored when Wood reached on an error.

Brian Etherton later hit a two-run single and Krause doubled in Joe Zellerman to make it 11-3.

Dowdy finally gets title in Missouri's State CupBy Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Staci Dowdy finished her high school career with All-State credentials, but still in search of a state title as a senior soccer player with the Lady Warriors this spring.

That all changed with one of Dowdy's trademark blasts Sunday during the under-19 Missouri State Cup competition in St. Louis. Dowdy's team, Busch, outlasted J.B. Marine on penalty kicks for the Missouri title and advanced to this month's Midwest Region Tournament.

THE VICTORY HELPED take away some of this year's frustration for Dowdy, who was hoping to lead the Lady Warriors last month to a third straight trip to the state tournament. After being named to the All-State team by the Illinois High School Soccer Coaches Association, Dowdy had looked forward to a season-ending trip to state.

But Granite City ended the year in sectional play with a loss to O'Fallon on May 29. The next day, Dowdy began practice with Busch.

In her first game last weekend, Dowdy led the team past J.B. Marine with a game-saving, overtime goal that tied the score and forced penalty kicks. Dowdy added a successful shot in the PK session, which ended after one round.

We want to make you a star

The Journal wants to take its sports coverage to new heights. We want your team to come along for the ride. We hope to provide extensive written and photo coverage of local youth league action. But we first need the cooperation of the stars of the show — you. In an effort to publish more complete and current news, we encourage team coaches and managers to bring in their results to the Journal office. Information can also be sent by FAX to the Journal at 876-4240.

In addition, if you are a team manager or the president or secretary of a league, the Journal wants to hear from you as soon as possible. The sports editors will be better able to plan coverage with copies of the team schedules, player rosters, lists of teams and the names and phone numbers of team managers.

Please send the information to: Granite City Press-Record Journal, 1815 Delmar, Granite City, Ill., 62040. For more information on youth sports coverage, call the Press-Record sports department at 876-2000, or the Journals main office at 877-7000.

Junior Triplets rebound for 9-8 win

By Karen Vartanian
Correspondent

After a brief two-game losing streak, Tri-City Junior Legion Post 113 got back on the winning track with a hard-fought 9-8 victory over East St. Louis Post 378 on Tuesday.

The Junior Triplets (4-3) fell behind East St. Louis 4-0 in the top of the first inning. But Tri-City battled back with four tallies of its own in the bottom half of the frame.

AFTER THE TEAMS exchanged runs over the next four innings, Tri-City took command of the game on a two-run triple by Dustin Brewer in the sixth inning. Brewer's hit and the relief work of Paul Kacera propelled the Triplets to their one-run victory.

"East St. Louis came out and hit the ball really well," Tri-City manager Chad Lignoul said. "But Dustin (Brewer) had a big hit for us and Paul Kacera came in in the third and did a great job for us."

Kacera was in relief of starter Chris Fiala, who only made it to the second inning. Lignoul was very impressed with Kacera's work.

"He did a real good job and is now leading the team in wins with two," Lignoul said. "He really gave us great relief work."

IN MONDAY NIGHT'S action against Edwardsville Post 199, Tri-City was not so fortunate. The Junior Triplets, coming off a 6-2 loss to Edwardsville on Sunday, were once again defeated by Post 199, 4-2.

Tri-City was victimized by errors for the second night in succession against Edwardsville, and Lignoul said those bad breaks for his squad only helped Edwardsville.

"The key was that we made some errors in the outfield that gave them a couple of runs," Lignoul said. "And they

Stephens 'switches' on his offense

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

A minor switch at the plate found Jeff Stephens thinking big with the Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville baseball team this spring.

Stephens, a junior shortstop from Granite City, made huge strides in his first year with the Cougars after transferring from Lewis and Clark Community College. The speedy Stephens batted .378 — the fourth-highest average on the team — and stole a team-high 36 bases.

THE 1991 GRANITE CITY High graduate enjoyed his most productive season yet and ended the year with All-Region honors. Last week, Stephens was named to the NCAA Division II All-Great Lakes Region team.

As a team, the Cougars went 32-12 and came up just short of a third-place finish in the region and a postseason bid. A big reason for SIUE's success was Stephens, who filled a key position at shortstop but most importantly stepped up his offense after some off-season work at switch-hitting.

For the first time in his collegiate career, Stephens alternated from the left and right side all season and seemed to improve his overall game as a result. Encouraged by several coaches to switch-hit because of his speed, Stephens took full advantage of the change this season.

"THAT WAS A big part of his success," SIUE coach George Collins said. "He really did a good job."

"He exceeded my expectations. I think the biggest thing that helped him was he got more confidence hitting from the left side. He got off to a good start and just kept going. He's worked real hard on it."

Stephens heated up at the plate after the Cougars returned home from a trip to Fort Myers, Fla., in March. After batting .237 in the first 10 games, Stephens went on a tear the rest of the season. By midseason, Stephens had a 10-game hitting streak and was threatening to break the single-season record for stolen bases (41, set by Granite City's Tim Hogan in 1991). Stephens ended the season third on the team in hits with 65 and added some power as well, finishing with three home runs and 28 RBIs.

"I STARTED OFF slow, but I just settled down and started making contact," Stephens said. "I was real pleased. I hit real well from both sides of the plate. "I don't know how to explain that. I've always been a mediocre hitter at best. I've always been known for my defense. They always knew I could field. Now, all of a sudden, I can hit a little bit."

Stephens started and played in all 49 games for the Cougars and batted in the leadoff spot all year. His defense helped solidify the Cougars' infield, and he was a threat on the basepaths.

The All-Region honor, however, took Stephens by surprise. "I'm really happy with it," Stephens said. "I makes you feel good when you play well and people recognize it. Our team did real well, which made it even better."

ON THE FINAL weekend of the season, the Cougars battled Lewis University for a playoff spot. But Lewis won the four-game series and finished third in the 25-team region.

"We just came up a little short," Collins said. "We came a little farther than I thought, so I was pleased with that."

"We're kind of excited about (next year). We've got our best five hitters coming back and two of our top three pitchers."

win, without us being able to go (to state) in the sectional," Dowdy said. "We all worked really hard. As new as our team is, we couldn't believe it."

After a scoreless first half, both teams scored and went to overtime locked at 1-1. The score remained tied after the first 15-minute overtime period.

J.B. Marine broke through with a goal in the second overtime and appeared to be on its way to victory with less than two minutes left. But with about 1:30 remaining, Dowdy found an opening just outside the penalty area and drilled a 20-yard shot to the upper right corner of the net.

"A J.B. player tried to clear it and it went right in front," Dowdy said. "One of our girls went to settle it, but I called her off and just one-timed it. It was pretty cool."

DOWDY WAS MORBID by her teammates, and time ran out shortly after the teams returned to the field. That set the stage for PKs, where Busch quickly prevailed for the title.

Busch earned the state title trophy, and Dowdy was named the game's Most Valuable Player. It was the latest honor for Dowdy, who received numerous awards with GCHS this year.

As a senior, Dowdy was named team MVP, served as team captain, was named to the all-tournament team at the St. Dominic-Howell North Shootout, and was voted to the Illinois Downstate Eleven squad.

A three-year starter, Dowdy played as a sweeper and had just three goals and two assists after leading the Lady Warriors in scoring last year. With 16 goals as a junior, Dowdy had high hopes for herself and the team entering this season.

BUT INJURIES PLAGUED the Lady Warriors all season. Dowdy moved to the backfield early in the year to help stabilize the defense.

She said she was surprised with the All-State recognition, but became the third GCHS sweeper in as many years to receive the honor. Two other sweeper backs — Kami Kessel (1994) and Beth Rapoff (1993) — were also named All-State.

"I wasn't really expecting it," Dowdy said. "I didn't think I would stand a chance because of my switch back to sweeper."

Dowdy returned to the offensive end in Granite City's final game against O'Fallon and had several scoring chances. But the Panthers scored in the first half and hung on for the win despite heavy pressure by the Lady Warriors throughout the second half.

Dowdy had two teammates, Tonya Genovese and Holly Farnsworth, joined Busch shortly after the high school season ended. They missed the team's first set of games during the weekend of the Granite City Sectional, but will now look to accompany the team to the regional tournament June 24-26 in Blaine, Minn.

Dowdy, who is being recruited by SIU-Edwardsville but has yet to commit, also plans to play in next month's Prairie State Games.

(Edwardsville) are a quality team, but we know they're not much better than us."

Tri-City actually had the winning run at the plate in the seventh inning, trailing 4-1 with one out and the bases loaded, the Triplets had the right man at the plate in cleanup hitter Ryan Releke. But Releke fanned. With two outs, a wild pitch cut the Edwardsville lead to 4-2. But starter and loser Jason Moad fanned to end the threat and the game.

ON A MORE positive note, Brian Johnson went 3 for 4 against Edwardsville. Lignoul said the only time Johnson was retired came in the first inning when he hit a ball up the middle off the pitcher, who recovered to throw Johnson out.

At this early juncture of the season, with the Junior Triplets still having some difficulty in the field, Lignoul isn't too concerned.

"We don't need to work on any one thing," Lignoul said. "We just need to get a little as a team."

Next up for Tri-City is Breesne on Friday.

City defeated Wood River 5-4 in extra innings after coming from behind in both the seventh and eighth innings.

THE TRIPLETS WERE scheduled to play Cahokia on Wednesday and will resume action at 7:45 p.m. tonight at Collinsville.

"I thought the Wood River game was really a catalyst for how well we're doing," Winfield said. "It showed them they could come back."

"We're doing much better than I thought we would. At the beginning of the year we had some questionable wins. We're real happy with the way they're playing."

Assistant coach Jim Greenwald agreed after watching the Triplets pound out 11 hits Tuesday.

"It's been a pleasant surprise," Greenwald said. "I'm real pleased. I think they're starting to believe in themselves."

Shain Kuehnell followed with a two-run single, which brought up Briggs.

THE SHORTSTOP, in his second straight game after playing with the Junior Triplets, tripled again off the right-field fence to drive in Kuehnell. Briggs scored on a wild pitch, and Wood reached base when he was hit by a pitch and eventually scored the final run. "Briggs corked two of them," Winfield said. "Krause hit the ball hard and Kuehnell had a nice hit. Everybody hit well."

Mike Ahlvers started and went five innings for his second victory of the year. Jeremy Hoback pitched the final two innings and retired six straight batters.

"The Triplets improved to 4-1 after falling 3-2 in their season opener against Waterloo last week. In its second game, Tri-

LOCAL NEWS

Jeff and Lori to perform

At 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 16, the Granite City Park District will feature Jeff and Lori with Music Magic.

This group has a different twist on entertainment. All age groups find something to like in their presentation.

Jeff and Lori have been associated with several functions at the AMVETS Post 204 in Madison and have been granted the status of opening act for the Fourth of July festivities at 7 p.m. June 30 at Wilson Park in Granite City.

Each member offers their expertise in both rotation and harmony. Jeff's ability to combine music with comedy and magic is a rare commodity that helps people relax and enjoy themselves.

Lori is sweet and gentle in a Texas-sort-of-way with a magical voice that mesmerizes everyone. She is quick with puns for Jeff's antics and harmonious to his leads.

You are sure to enjoy this delightfully talented group offering the top sounds of the 1950s to today in the rock, country, pop and night club entertainment.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes people contact this office and indicate that they have been criminally attacked on the property of a particular business establishment. The question that arises in these cases is whether the business owner can be held responsible for these attacks by third parties.

Generally there is no duty to protect another against the criminal attacks of third persons. However, an owner or occupier of land in Illinois owes a duty to invitees on his premises to reasonably guard against acts of third parties when such acts are reasonably foreseeable.

In one recent case in Danville, Illinois, the plaintiff entered a department store to make a purchase. As the plaintiff was leaving through the front entrance, she was confronted by two men who took her purse and knocked her to the ground. She brought a negligence action against the store in an effort to recover money for her injuries.

The plaintiff's complaint alleged that the store owner had a duty to protect her from criminal attack by third persons which the store owner knew or should have known were reasonably likely to occur. The injured person in this case noted that the two men who had attacked her were earlier inside the store harassing customers. She felt this should have put the store on notice that there was a potential problem. In addition, the plaintiff noted that months earlier a similar robbery had occurred in the parking lot. Finally, the plaintiff alleged that the defendants were negligent in failing to provide adequate lighting on the lot.

The real issue in this case is whether the attack upon the plaintiff was reasonably foreseeable by the owner of the store. If the owner of the store knew or should have known that such an attack could occur, the court would impose a duty upon the business to protect its customers. If the attack was not reasonably foreseeable, there is no duty to protect.

In this case, the trial court and the appellate court found that the defendants owed no duty to the plaintiff. The court felt that the allegations regarding a previous purse snatching and the actions of the two men while inside the store were insufficient to make the attack upon the plaintiff reasonably foreseeable.

Horoscope

Thursday, June 15
The bottom line is important when the sun squares Saturn — if your cause is worthy, plead its practical purposes rather than its poetic justification. Enjoy lots of pleasant moments with the old, familiar gang, but don't try to crash the "in" crowd until next week. Job hunts go well if you have great references. Impress others with your respect for experience.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). The focus is on those you work with and old friends. Politics takes the front seat in your locale and workplace. In-laws bring gain, but it may carry an obligation that you find unpleasant. A fellow Aries helps you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Depend on a grandfatherly type — perhaps your career mentor — to clue you in before you commit to a new method. A new job start is inhibited by bureaucracy or red tape.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Personal chats at the office or even a lot of bantering among the staff will get on the VIP's nerves today. Get the message, and look busy. Being able to motivate others is your specialty now.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). The background is the safest spot during a period of political turmoil at work. At home, you may feel singled out for criticism, but some of this is a projection of your mood of self-absorption.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). The excitement of colleagues may leave you feeling alone in a crowd — it's just a day that you feel rained out, so resolve to get extra vitamins and extra rest. Advice received may be quite sound.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 15). Experiment with new ways of communicating in July. Investments bring delayed but solid returns. Dare to project your ambitions into real-life plans in August. True love finds material expression in September. Individual identity holds a key to success in October. Create something original! Renovate, and return to school in November. Market your skills in December.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). A friendship goes through a cool period — just back off for awhile and all will be well. Putting things off isn't your style, but it's sensible to let routine mail and appointment-making slide until next week.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Ignore obstacles to the completion of a routine, and complete what you can — but do heed little symptoms of low-energy, and take extra care of yourself. Mediate a co-worker dispute without taking sides.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Being right isn't as important as being helpful. Be willing to work extra hours to cover for those who are absent. Admit to an error if it comes to light, but avoid having to by double-checking all figures.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Talking it over can make all the difference, especially if one who really needs your ear has no one else who'll listen. Good luck is encountered while running errands or by overhearing information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Get off to an early start as the morning goes smoothly, while circumstances slow you in the evening. Delays in responses to job applications or checks for work you have completed will clear up next week.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). If you said you'd do it, you must follow through. Unexpected expenses connected with a child are more important than your original plans for the money. Make progress in your routine — even though it's boring.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). A strong stand could alienate those at home, but only temporarily. Not being understood is never a surprise to you, however, you'll be surprised how soon today's naysayers admit that you were right.
